Control Worms in Young Birds

One of the more important concerns of the poultry-raiser is the problem of internal parasites, or worms. A flock infected with worms is hindered badly in growth and performance, thus reducing the grower's opportunity for reasonable poultry profits.

Right now is a good time to discuss the worm problem because worms - large roundworms, particularly - cause heavy damage in young flocks. Although large roundworms may be found in chickens of all ages, some of the heaviest infestation occur in birds under three months of age. In fact, growing birds have been found to be infected with large roundworms as early as three to four weeks old.

A common effect of large roundworm infection is stunting of growth. Moreover, worms lower a bird's vitality, reduce its disease resistance, and make it an easy prey for such diseases as cold, bronchitis and Newcastle.

Rather than permit worm infections to get a foothold in your flock, and perhaps slow-up the development of an otherwise healthy poultry flock, consider some of the precautions you can enforce against such infections.

For instance, give special attention to the range site. Be sure your growing flock is placed on clean range, preferably land which has not been used as range during the previous year. And in choosing the range, avoid bare land and ditches, which become puddles during wet weather.

As another important precaution, keep young and old birds separated. Older birds can transmit infections to younger birds quite easily.

Also, avoid damp litter in the brooder house. And see to it that birds have access to plenty of sunlight and are given the benefit of a well-balanced diet.

To remove worms from the flock, practice a program of regular flock treatment. New, effective treatments that are easy to give, even in the birds' drinking water, make worming a simple and inexpensive practice that pays off handsomely in future egg production.

VA. LOCALITIES PREPARE FOR 1957 FESTIVAL EVENTS

Williamsburg, Va.- Petersburg and Hopewell are taking the lead among Southside Virginia communities toward offering attractions during the Jamestown Festival of 1957, with plans, respectively, for a colorful outdoor pageant and for restoring one of America's oldest churches.

Park S. Rouse, Jr., executive director of the Virginia 350th Anniversary Commission, and King Meehan, director of special projects, said eight or more counties in southern Virginia are organizing for participation in the 350th anniversary of the landing at Jamestown, the nation's birthday next year.

Walter T. McCandlish and H. Augustus Miler, chairmen of the Petersburg Festival Committee, have informed Festival headquarters here that the City Council has appropriated $5,000 toward a pageant in Petersburg National Military Park either on June 12 or on June 20, 1957.

The pageant will cover the history of the area from the time of Captain John Smith's explorations in 1608 to the visit of President George Washington on his triumphal tour of the South in 1791.

A permanent committee to restore Merchant's Hope Church near Hopewell, has been formed under Harry K. Fowle, of Hopewell, general chairman, with Garland S. Barksdale and Lieutenant General Leonard T. Gerow, U. S. A. (Ret.) both of Petersburg, as vice chairmen.

The church is believed to have been completed in 1657 and will celebrate its 300th anniversary next year. It stands three and a half miles south of Hopewell between Routes 10 and 106. Solicitation has begun for $15,000, for repairs as an initial step toward complete restoration.

A locality farther to the south—Brunswick County — is planning a unique celebration around the origin of nationally famous Brunswick stew, and Fort Christana, first school founded to teach Indians. W. L. Hartwell, Jr., of Lawrenceville, is chairman of the Festival committee.

CARS WASHED

Haverhill, Mass.- Local police cruisers needed washing and so, after the City Council approved the order for having the cars washed, the Council relayed the order to the City Manager, the City Manager relayed it to the Police Chief William J. Collins, and Collins passed it on to a Police Department mechanic. With no one to pass the order on to, the mechanic washed the cars.

Communist China is planning a $12,000,000,000 budget for 1956. The budget called for higher state expenditures for heavy industry and agriculture. However, it included a cut in defense spending.

Sarah Anne's COOKING CLASS

During these hot days, it is a relief to have a meal that requires the minimum of preparation. Now is the time to make your refrigerator do the work for you. Not only does it make delicious desserts but any course may be prepared and finished in the refrigerator.

A cold plate can have just as many vitamins as any meal that was cooked on a range.

Cold Plate

For the service of this salad use a large flat platter. Arrange on it first crisp, well-drained lettuce, then in the center pile a mound of potato salad well moistened with mayonnaise and arrange around this each item by itself, thickly sliced, chilled, peeled tomatoes, white meat of chicken, coarsely shredded, pickled beets, diced cucumbers, cubes of cold boiled ham. Have all ingredients very thoroughly chilled and if liked sprinkle tomatoes and beets with finely minced chives. Pass any preferred dressing. This salad with crisp hot rolls will be found ample for a summer meal.

Jellied Cherries

Heat 3 cups pitted cherries, 1 cup water, 1 teaspoon salt, 1-4 cup lemon juice and 1 cup sugar to the boiling point. Add 2 tablespoons of gelatin, which has been softened in water. Chill.

Canned Corned Beef in Aspic Jelly

1 can corned beef
1 package aspic flavored gelatin
1 cup boiling water
1 tablespoon lemon juice
1-4 teaspoon tabasco sauce
1 cup cold water

Dissolve the gelatin in the boiling water and add the cold water, lemon juice and tabasco sauce. Chill until the gelatin begins to thicken, but not until it is set. Remove the chilled corned beef from the can and slice in 1-2 inch slices. Arrange layers of aspic and slices of corned beef in a rectangular mold. Chill until firm.

Chicken and Vegetable Salad

2 tablespoons gelatin
1-4 cup cold water
2 cups hot chicken soup
2 hard boiled eggs, sliced
1-4 cup stuffed olives, sliced
3-4 cup sliced chicken
1-2 cup cooked peas
1-2 cup cooked diced carrots
1-2 cup cooked string beans
1 cup mayonnaise.

Soak gelatin in the cold water and dissolve in the hot soup. Cool. Place the sliced eggs and olives in the bottom of a mold and cover with a thin layer of the gelatin mixture. Chill. When firm arrange a layer of the chicken and cover with more of the gelatin mixture. Chill. When firm arrange a layer of the vegetables and cover with the remaining gelatin. Chill until firm. Unmold, slice and serve on crisp lettuce with mayonnaise.

Frozen Crab Meat and Tomato Salad

2 cups canned tomatoes
2 whole cloves
1 small onion minced
1-2 teaspoon celery seed
1 teaspoon salt - pepper
1 tablespoon sugar
1 tablespoon gelatin
2 tablespoons cold water
1 tablespoon lemon juice
1 cup cream
1 green pepper
1 small can crab meat

Combine the tomatoes, cloves, onion, celery seed, salt, sugar, and pepper. Simmer 15 minutes. Strain and add the lemon juice and the gelatin which has softened in cold water. Stir until thoroughly dissolved and until the mixture begins to set, then beat with an egg beater until frothy. Fold in the cream, which has been beaten stiff. The green pepper seeded and chopped, and the crab meat. Turn into a refrigerator tray and freeze. Serve in 1 1-2 inch squares on crisp lettuce with mayonnaise or French dressing.

Homemade Electric Fence

Homemade electric fence devices may be death traps, and unsafe fences should be removed from every community and farm, according to the Virginia Rural Safety Council.

The council suggests that no fence be energized except through a controller that meets the specifications of a recognized testing agency.

Approved controllers provide for a current that is limited to a few 1/100th of an ampere, and is only permitted on the line for an instant. The "off-period" must be enough to permit a person to release himself from the fence.

The council gives these tips on electric fences:

Avoid locating one near pipe lines, pumps, stock tanks, ponds, irrigation ditches, or other normally wet places.

Always prominently identify electric fences, especially near buildings, property lines and roads.

Never depend upon an electric fence to restrain bulls or other dangerous animals.

The council warns that even a very small current is enough to electrocute a person, because victims "freeze" to the conductor and can't release themselves unless the current is shut off.

A COSTLY NAP

Louisville, Ky.- Donald Farmer, 18-year old airline employee, decided to take a nap atop his gasoline truck while drawing gasoline from a supply tank. The truck's tank overflowed and some 3,000 gallons of gasoline spilled on the ground before someone awakened Farmer. It took firemen three hours to wash the gasoline away.

Poultry Tips

As summer temperatures climb, many poultry flocks will register drops in egg production. V. P. I. poultry specialists say increased watering space, more effective ventilation systems, water sprays or sprinklers, and shade, can all be used in an efforot to beat 'old sol.' The laying hen must be kept as comfortable as possible to maintain egg production.

News Around Town

By Mrs. Calvin Robinson

I liked this one:

That perpetually bashful suitor was talking to his girl's father.

"Sir, I—or, — have called to ask you to give assent to my marriage to your daughter."

"Give a cent!" cried the old man. "Bless my soul, young man, if you will take her, I'll make it a dollar!" —Quote.

Mrs. Watkins M. Abbitt brought me some nice corn on the cob from her garden Tuesday morning. Said they had had tomatoes, but the family ate them as fast as they ripened. So no tomatoes. But thanks to Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Rogers for the nice lot of garden ripe tomatoes, corn and cucumbers from their fine garden. Also to G. L. Doss for some tomatoes from his garden, and to Rev. B. F. Robinson for string beans. And yet there is room in the vegetable bin!!

Friends are sorry to hear of the illness of Mr. J. F. Harvey. Mr. Harvey was carried by ambulance Saturday to the McGuire Hospital in Richmond. He sustained a broken hip when he fell at his home on Tuesday. We wish for him a speedy recovery. Mr. and Mrs. L. A. Young visited him on Sunday.

Congratulations to Mr. and Mrs. Elton Porton upon the arrival of a son, Michael Elton, born at the Virginia Baptist Hospital Saturday, July 7. Mrs. Porton is the former Mickey Guill, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jesse Guill, of Appomattox.

We've had some lovely Glads out of our flower garden: beautiful lavender, red, pink, and yellow. Keep a vase of them on my desk at the office. And Father Darkleaf has added a unique display to his office desk: General Robert E. Lee mounted on Traveller, holding a Confederate Flag. It is about a foot high.

R. A. Elliott, Jr., Electronic Technician, from Waukegan, Ill., has arrived in Appomattox, and will spend several weeks with his wife and daughter in the home of Mrs. Alpha Higginbotham. The Elliotts will make their home in Norfolk, where he has been transferred.

W. C. Dudley, area supervisor of Vocational Agriculture, is assisting with school cannery training conferences in Patrick and Botetourt Counties this week.

Mr. Charles E. Petersen, supervisor architect of all historical projects in the East of the National Park Service, from the Philadelphia office, is spending several days here.

FLASH! this is news—on Friday night, four women wrestlers make their Lynchburg debut, taking part in the main event of a three-match card at the City Armory. Judy Grable, of Miami, described as the "female Argentina Rocca," because of her remarkable footwork, teams up with Pat Sherry to take on Moolah, "the slave girl," and Joan Mullinax, in about of three falls affair with a 60 minute time limit. The show begins at 8:00 P. M. The supporting card has two fine bouts.

News along Main St.: The N. & W. is rebuilding the old frame storage building on the Depot side of Main St. Thanks for making our town look better.
